

Internship – Supplier Quality & Change Management (PCNs) (Iasi)

Your tasks

As a Supplier Quality Change Management Intern, you will support the management of Product and Process Change Notifications (PCNs) – formal notifications through which suppliers propose changes that may impact product quality, manufacturing processes, or supply stability.

This internship offers hands-on exposure to supplier quality management, cross-functional collaboration and real industrial change management processes within a global automotive organization.

Do you want to work as an Internship for Supplier Quality & Change Management (PCNs) team? These should spark your interest:

1. Supplier Change Management (PCNs)

- Support the change management process by creating, managing, monitoring, and escalating Product / Process Change Notifications (PCNs) within AUMOVIO;
- Align with suppliers and internal interfaces for new PCN requests and clarifications;
- Track PCN status and ensure timely follow-up until closure.

2. Knowledge & Process Management

- Actively contribute to continuous improvement of the PCN process (e.g. process updates, documentation clarity);
- Support the development of training materials and training certification related to PCNs;
- Support the development and improvement of IT tools used for PCN handling and tracking.

3. Quality Management

- Use AUMOVIO internal quality procedures and tools to ensure product integrity during the processing of PCNs;
- Support risk assessment activities related to supplier changes, under guidance of experienced SQM engineers.

4. Stakeholder Management

- Ensure clear and timely communication of PCN status to all involved internal stakeholders (e.g. Quality, Purchasing, R&D, Project Management);
- Support efficient coordination across international and multidisciplinary teams.
